Charles O'Reilly treasurer of the Land League association in this country says that O'Brien in prison is worth $10,000 a week to the fund which they are raising to help Ireland in her struggle. Before he was arrested O'Brien was earning $20 a week as an editor.

The Knights of Labor of the Union Pacific railway have adopted resolutions expressing thanks that the anarchist element of the Knights of Labor are disgusted with Powderly's management, and propose to leave. These people know what to be thankful for.

Owing to the heavy assessment made on the candidates for office in New York city, there has been a considerable discussion of a change in our election machinery. It is proposed that the government print the election tickets and provide for their proper distribution. If this is done, a man may run for office without any expense whatever, unless he chooses to do some canvassing. The suggestion is an important one, because so much money is required in politics that only the rich men can conveniently run for office. A poor man finds it pretty hard to be honest upon office.

The Denver World does not believe in asking the general government to pay the expenses of the alleged Ute war. It thinks the whole affair was a disgrace to the state, and that the best way out of it is to pay the bills and say nothing more about it. Undoubtedly this is the wisest plan. There was so much lying on the part of Colorado citizens, and withal so much cowardice that any investigation would result in bringing disgrace on the state. We can well afford to pay one hundred thousand dollars rather than have our record in this matter published to the world.

Next Wednesday Alderman Polydore de Keyser will become lord mayor of London. He is a Catholic, and the first Catholic since Tudor times who has held this office. Since 1558 he is a native of Belgium, and was naturalized as a subject of Queen Victoria twenty-two years ago. It is only a little while ago that the selection of a Catholic for such a high position would have aroused all Protestant England to defend the church and the region. But gradually these prejudices have faded out, and politically now the English people know no race or religion. Alderman has recently been a popular provincial mayor, and now a Catholic becomes the chief position of dignity in London.

The men who are expressing their sympathy for the anarchists are only doing more harm to good government than the men they seek to help have. It is a sacrifice of common sense in a way with all members of the party in the last place. These men were criminals. There is nothing in the whole of their lives to show that they have been actuated by any pure, patriotic or philanthropic motive in their political agitations. They were a deranged, disreputable set of unemployed men who were trying to get a living without work. If we waste any sentimental tears over these men, it will encourage every brute in the country to commit outrageous deeds. The mistake made in the case of the anarchists was in drawing them to martyrdom. As soon as the excitement connected with the murderous outrages at Haymarket square had died away, and with the part played in the tragedy by these men it was impossible to create any general sympathy, but the memory of this tragedy is not as keen as it was and many people are only glad now of the dreadful penalty which three scoundrels are to pay. It is unfortunate that so much misdirected sympathy should be called out.

Apparently, Cleveland Hill and Hewitt are taking an active part in securing the election of Colonel Fellows as district attorney in New York. At first, it was thought to be a merely local fight, but it seems necessary that Fellows should be successful in order that the democratic party may maintain its organization. It is a great misfortune to the democratic party that it should be compelled for its friends of intelligent people it puts itself on the side of the Lottery Count. Mr Hewitt has written a letter in which he declares himself in favor of the election of Colonel Fellows. This is, however, the most frank avowal which characterizes his utterances. He says nothing more in the light than that the newspaper wanted to run the

Dr. R. S. Buxton of Colorado City, has been granted a license to practice medicine by the state board of medical examiners, and he has filed the same with the county clerk.

Cards are out for the marriage of Mr. John M. Sellers and Miss Mary Rice, at the residence of the bride's parents at Winchester, Illinois, on next Wednesday evening, November 11th.

Yesterday afternoon four wagon loads of Mormon immigrants passed through the city on their way from Arkansas to Utah. The men, women and children were perfect types of Arkansas rural character.

Three views of Company A on the field, taken by a photographer who accompanied the troops from Glenwood Springs to Meeker during the late Ute war, are on exhibition in the window of Bell's drug store.

There was not a very large attendance at the meeting of the board of trade last evening. When the time for calling the meeting to order arrived only one member was present, and the board adjourned for want of a quorum.

The Woman's Exchange met yesterday afternoon in the vestry of the First Methodist church. It was decided to rent the store room, No 121 East Huerfano street, for the purpose of the exchange. It will be opened to the public in about two weeks.

The sale of seats for the "artistic entertainment" to be given by Thomas Nast at the opera house on next Wednesday evening will be opened Monday morning. Secure an opportunity, as it may not be soon announced in the people of Colorado Springs.

Mr. Orin Hennaway, son of Colorado Springs' popular grocery man, Mr. A. Hennaway, was married at Cedar Junction, Kansas, on Thursday, after on to Miss Lou E. Sweet, who formerly resided in the city. Of Thomas Nast's [illegible] the Denver Tribune says: "To speak of Thomas Nast as a caricaturist is an utter misnomer. He is a genius, a master in [illegible] and he very honest [illegible] interesting. On the [illegible] and [illegible] but natural and [illegible].

He will drive the team back to his ranch, leaving this morning. The reward of $50 for the arrest of the thieves and the recovery of the property was paid to the city marshal and will be given to the officer who effected the capture of the thieves.

Water was turned into the reservoir main of the Manitou water works yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock. The Manitou system has necessitated the construction of two settlers between the point where water is taken out of the creek, near Cascade Canon, and the reservoir, the land for which has lately been acquired from Mr. Norman C. Jones. These settlers have been constructed for the purpose of diminishing the pressure which would burst the pipes if there were no breaks in the main between the reservoir and the creek. It is estimated that there is a fall of nearly one thousand feet between the creek and the town. This would give a pressure of [illegible] pounds to the inch. The pipe between the first of the settlers and the creek has been laid and it was into this that the water was turned yesterday afternoon.
